The Europa Regional Surveys of the World 2008

'Europa's Regional Surveys of the World are justly renowned for their exceptionally high levels of production, content and accuracy.'

– Reference Reviews

A nine-volume library of historical, political, geographical and economic data, providing an accurate and impartial overview of the major regions of the world.

These exhaustive surveys bring together a unique collection of information, from description and analysis of the principal issues affecting each region, to statistical data and directory information. They provide a combination of contemporary material and important historical perspective to offer a definitive guide to all regions of the world.

Meticulously researched and updated every year, the Europa Regional Surveys of the World are an indispensable information source on which you can rely.

Each volume includes:

- a General Survey, in which internationally respected authorities analyse a diverse selection of topical issues of regional significance, ranging from politics and economics to religion and the environment
- individual chapters on each country in the form of Country Surveys, which contain: geographical information; in-depth articles on each nation's history and economy; an extensive statistical survey, providing the latest available demographic and economic figures; and a directory of key names, addresses, contact numbers and e-mail and internet addresses
- Regional Information, including details of commodities specific to the area, research institutes, and international and regional organizations specializing in each region, together with a bibliography of periodicals and books for further reading.
