Introducing the New Sexuality Studies

Original Essays and Interviews

Edited by Steven Seidman, State University of New York, USA, Nancy Fischer, Augsburg College, Minnesota, USA and Chet Meeks, Georgia State University, Atlanta, USA

Breaking new ground, both substantively and stylistically, this book offers students, academics and researchers an accessible and engaging introduction and overview of this emerging field. Its central premise is to explore the social character of sexuality, the role of social differences such as race or nationality in creating sexual variation, and the ways sex is entangled in relations of power and inequality. Through this novel approach the field of sexuality is considered, for the first time, in multicultural, global and comparative terms, and from a truly social perspective.

This important volume consists of over fifty short and original essays on the key topics and themes in sexuality studies, and interviews with twelve leading scholars in the field which convey some of the most innovative work being done. Each contribution is original and conveys the latest thinking and research in writing that is clear and that uses examples to illustrate key points.

This topical and timely volume is an invaluable resource to all those with an interest in sexuality studies.

White Weddings

Romancing Heterosexuality in Popular Culture

Chrys Ingraham, Purchase College, New York, USA

By examining popular films, commercials, magazines, advertising, television sitcoms and even children's toys, this book shows the pervasive influence of weddings in our culture and the important role they play in maintaining the romance of heterosexuality, the myth of white supremacy and the insatiable appetite of consumer capitalism.

The extensive growth of the wedding industrial complex is given full coverage and attention as well as gay marriage and its relationship to white weddings and heterosexuality. Finally, demographics shifts as to who is marrying whom and why, nationally and internationally, are also covered.

Selected Contents: 1. Lifting the Veil 2. The Wedding-Industrial Complex 3. Romancing the McBride: The White Wedding 4. Four Weddings and an Industry: Popular Film, Television and Internet Weddings 5. And They Lived Happily Ever After. Epilogue

NEW*Men Speak Out

Views on Gender, Sex, and Power

Edited by Shira Tarrant, California State University, Long Beach, USA

Men Speak Out is a collection of essays written by and about pro-feminist men. In the essays, which feature original, lively and accessible prose, anti-sexist men make sense of their gendered experiences in today's culture.

The authors tackle the issues of feminism, growing up male, recognizing masculine privilege, taking action to change the imbalance of power and privilege and the constraints that men experience in confronting sexism. They describe their successes and challenges in bucking patriarchal systems in a culture that can be unsupportive of – or downright hostile to – a pro-feminist perspective. In these chapters, a diverse group of men reflect on growing up, share moments in their day-to-day lives, and pose serious questions about being a pro-feminist male living, working, thinking, and learning in a sexist society.

NEW FOR 2008*Gender and Everyday Life

Mary Holmes, Flinders University, Australia

Series: The New Sociology

Why are we so insistent that women and men are different? This book provides a fascinating and highly readable look at how society divides people into feminine women and masculine men. It explores gender as a way of seeing women and men as not just biological organisms but people shaped by their everyday social world. The book examines how gender has been understood and lived in the past (history), how it is understood and done differently by different cultures and groups within cultures (comparison), and what might be the strengths and limitations of different ways of thinking and doing gender (critical analysis).

Key sociological and feminist ideas about gender are illustrated with a range of examples, dealing with everything from nineteenth century fashions in China and Britain, to discussions of what Barbie can tell us about gender in America, to the lives of working women in Japan.

NEW FOR 2008*The Body and Everyday Life

Helen Thomas, London College of Fashion, UK

Series: The New Sociology

Taking an innovative and alternative approach to the fascinating topic of the body, this book offers a lively and comprehensive introduction to the main themes and issues that have emerged over recent years. It includes sections on:

- ethnographies of the body
- bodies of performance
- technological bodies
- raving bodies/shifting socialites
- the ageing performing body.

Thomas illustrates the complex relationships that exist between the body, society and everyday life, by linking current theory to the body through a series of case studies, ranging across a variety of cultural settings, to offer a colourful basis to the discussion of the theory and methodology which underlies the body.

NEW FOR 2008*The Languages of Sexuality

Jeffrey Weeks, South Bank University, London, UK

Words, Freud once wrote, are like magic. Nowhere have words been more magical than in the writing of sexuality. Through words we learn what is good or bad, pleasurable or painful, significant and insignificant. The words used about sexuality do not simply describe something out there. They help shape what sexuality is.

A clearly written presentation of complex ideas, this book provides a pathway to further reading. Arranged alphabetically it is a compendium of one hundred words that are key to the understanding of contemporary sexualities and intimacies. This fascinating book becomes a personal exploration of meanings, as reflected through key words by a renowned theorist of sexuality. It is both a valuable text through which to explore individual meanings of key concepts; and part of a long-term project to investigate the fluid, shifting, ever-evolving meanings of the erotic.

Throughout Weeks shows how meanings change, their need to be contextualized, and how they can become 'magical' in the unfolding of sexual meanings.

4TH EDITION

Unequal Sisters

An Inclusive Reader in U.S. Women's History

Edited by Vicki L. Ruiz, University of California, USA with Ellen DuBois

"With over a dozen new essays, the fourth edition of Unequal Sisters is perhaps the strongest yet in terms of depth, breadth, and diversity of analysis. It is an exciting, vital mix of now-classic statements and cutting-edge work that brilliantly illuminates the complexities of ethnicity, race, class, region, gender, and sexuality. The anthology is undoubtedly among the very best in the field."

—MICHELE MITCHELL,

author of Righteous Propagation: African Americans and the Politics of Racial Destiny after Reconstruction

"This remarkable collection of essays challenges traditional conceptions of womanhood. Ruiz has selected highly readable interpretations of women's historical experiences as they emerge from a wide array of perspectives, including women's political standpoints, their ethnic and racial situations, sexual preferences, and class positions. Taken together the essays signal a new direction in the history of women."

—ALICE KESSLER-HARRIS,

author of Gendering Labor History

Unequal Sisters has become a beloved and classic reader in American women's history. It provides an unparalleled resource for understanding women's history in the United States today.

This classic work, now in its fourth edition, has incorporated the feedback of end-users in the field, to make it the most user-friendly version to date.

Women, Science, and Technology

A Reader in Feminist Science Studies

Edited by Mary Wyer, Mary Barbercheck,
Donna Giesman, Hatice Ozturk and Marta Wayne

Women, Science, and Technology is an ideal reader for courses in feminist science studies, science studies more generally, women's studies, and studies in gender and education. This second edition fully updates its predecessor, dropping ten readings and replacing them with new ones that:

- extend content coverage into areas not originally included, such as reproductive, agricultural, medical and imaging technologies
- reflect new feminist theory and research on biology, language, the global economy and the intersection of race and class with gender
- provide current statistical information about the representation of women and people of colour in science, technology, engineering and mathematics
- are more accessible for students.

Section introductions have also been fully updated to cover the latest controversies, such as Harvard president Lawrence Summers' widely debated discussion about women and science and the current debates surrounding reports on the low numbers of female engineers.

Selected Contents: General Introduction: Feminism, Science and Technology Section 1: High Hopes, Broken Promises and Persistence: Educating Women for Science and Engineering Careers Section 2: Stereotypes by/about Scientists and Engineers Section 3: Technologies of Difference: How Ideas about Women and Men Shape Science and Technology Section 4: The Next Generation: Bringing Feminist Perspectives into Science and Technology Studies Section 5: Reproducible Insights: Women Creating Knowledge, Social Policy, and Change

Feminist Criminology

Claire M. Renzetti, University of Dayton, USA

Series: Key Ideas in Criminology

Feminist criminology grew out of the Women's Movement of the 1970s in response to the neglect of women by, and the male dominance of, mainstream criminology. This important volume traces the development of feminist criminology and assesses its impact on the discipline.

Examining the development of feminist theoretical perspectives and empirical research in criminology, this key book investigates their impact on research methods and topics, pedagogy and curriculum, and employment in academic and criminal justice professions.

Renzetti considers the potential for feminist criminology to transform the discipline, making it more progressive by including as a central principle the need to analyze intersecting inequalities, especially those of gender, race and class, in order to fully understand both crime and justice. She skillfully gives a balanced view of the subject, incorporating both the successes and failures of feminist criminology and provides an extensive, up-to-date bibliography which allows criminology students to access, for their own research purposes, the large body of feminist criminological literature.

Selected Contents: 1. The Emergence of Feminist Criminology 2. Feminist Criminology at the Close of the Twentieth Century 3. Feminist Criminology in the Twenty-First Century 4. Assessing the Impact of Feminist Criminology in Academe 5. Assessing the Impact of Feminist Criminology in Criminal Justice Practice 6. The Future of Feminist Criminology and the Future of Criminology: Separate but Equal?

NEW FOR 2008*2ND EDITION*Sexuality

Joseph Bristow, University of California, Los Angeles, USA

Series: The New Critical Idiom

Theories of sexuality and desire are commonly used in literary and cultural studies. In this illuminating study Joseph Bristow introduces readers to the fundamental critical debates surrounding the topic.

This fully updated second edition includes:

- an historical account of sexuality from the Victorians to the present
- discussions of the most influential theorists including Freud, Lacan, Bataille, Baudrillard, Cixous, Deleuze, Irigaray and Kristeva
- a new and extended discussion of queer and transgender theory, race, ethnicity and desire
- a new preface summarizing changes in the field since the first edition
- a new glossary, annotated further reading section and bibliography.

Considering all of the major movements in the field, this new edition is the ideal guide for students of literary and cultural studies.

3RD EDITION

Ethnography

Principles in Practice

Martyn Hammersley, The Open University, UK and
Paul Atkinson, Cardiff University, UK

Now in its third edition this leading introduction to ethnography has been thoroughly updated and substantially rewritten. It offers a systematic introduction to ethnographic principles and practice. New material covers the use of visual and virtual research methods, hypermedia software and the issue of ethical regulation. There is also a new prologue and epilogue.

The authors argue that ethnography is best understood as a reflexive process. What this means is that we must recognize that social research is part of the world that it studies. From an outline of the principle of reflexivity the authors go on to discuss and exemplify main features of ethnographic work:

- the selection and sampling of cases
- the problems of access
- observation and interviewing
- recording and filing data
- the process of data analysis and writing research reports.

Throughout, the discussion draws on a wide range of illustrative material from classic and more recent studies within a global context. The new edition of this popular textbook will be an indispensable resource for students and researchers utilizing social research methods in the social sciences and cultural studies.

Selected Contents: Prologue 1. What is Ethnography? 2. Research Design: Problems, Cases, and Samples 3. Access 4. Field Relations 5. Oral Accounts and the Role of Interviewing 6. Documents and other Artefacts, Real and Virtual 7. Recording and Organizing Data 8. The Process of Analysis 9. Writing Ethnography 10. Ethics. Epilogue

NEW FOR 2008*Sociability, Sexuality, Self

Relationality and Individualization

Sasha Roseneil, Birkbeck College, University of London, UK

As more and more people spend longer periods of their lives outside conventional families and couples, radical transformation in personal life is underway. Much of the love, care and support that matters to people now takes place beyond the boundaries of the family, between partners who do not live together and within networks of friends.

This book proposes a new way of understanding recent social change in three aspects of personal life – sociability, sexuality and self. Developing a theory of queer individualization, it identifies a set of counter-heteronormative relationship practices emerging among those at the cutting-edge of change: the prioritization of friendship, the de-centering of sexual/love relationships and the forming of non-conventional sexual partnerships. Arguing for a psychosocial approach to personal life, the book proposes a queer re-theorizing of individualization, which disrupts the binary categories of individual/society, and which holds the relational nature of human life as central.

NEW FOR 2008*Arab, Muslim, Woman

Voice and Vision in Postcolonial Literature and Film

Lindsey Moore, University of Lancaster, UK

Given a long history of representation by others, what strategies have Arab and Muslim women writers, filmmakers and visual artists used to represent their own experience?

This groundbreaking book brings together a wide range of literary and visual texts, many of which have not received extensive treatment elsewhere. Lindsey Moore makes a case for the pertinence of Arab, Muslim women's creative work to a postcolonial feminist canon. She provides an accessible but theoretically-informed analysis – using postcolonial, feminist, psychoanalytic and other critical methodologies – including texts by Leila Aboulela, Assia Djebar, Fatima Mernissi, Ahlam Mosteghanemi, Nawal el Sa'adawi, Hanan al Shaykh, Leila Sebbar, Zineb Sedira, Ahdaf Soueif, Moufida Tlatli, and many others.

The overarching argument is that women writers and artists appropriate a textual economy of representation to refigure and resist ways in which they have been framed visually, textually and discursively. Thus Moore foregrounds tropes of vision, visibility and voice, locating these themes in relation to the temporal and spatial paradigms and thresholds that shape women's creative and critical interventions.

Feminist Cultural Studies of Science and Technology

Maureen McNeil, Lancaster University, UK

Feminist Cultural Studies of Science and Technology challenges the assumption that science is simply what scientists do, say, or write: it shows the multiple and dispersed makings of science and technology in everyday life and popular culture.

This first major guide and review of the new field of feminist cultural studies of science and technology provides readers with an accessible introduction to its theories and methods. Documenting and analyzing the recent explosion of research which has appeared under the rubric of 'cultural studies of science and technology' it examines the distinctive features of the 'cultural turn' in science studies and traces the contribution feminist scholarship has made to this development. Interrogating the theoretical and methodological features it evaluates the significance of this distinctive body of research in the context of concern about public attitudes to science and contentious debates about public understanding of and engagement with science.

Violent Femmes

Women as Spies in Popular Culture

Rosie White, University of Northumbria, UK

The female spy has long exerted a strong grip on the popular imagination. With reference to popular fiction, film and television Violent Femmes examines the figure of the female spy as a nexus of contradictory ideas about femininity, power, sexuality and national identity. Fictional representations of women as spies have recurrently traced the dynamic of women's changing roles in British and American culture. Employing the central trope of women who work as spies, Rosie White examines cultural shifts during the twentieth century regarding the role of women in the professional workplace.

Violent Femmes examines the female spy as a figure in popular discourse which simultaneously conforms to cultural stereotypes and raises questions about women's roles in British and American culture, in terms of gender, sexuality and national identity.

Immensely useful for a wide range of courses such as film and television studies, English, cultural studies, women's studies, gender studies, media studies, communications, and history, this book will appeal to students from undergraduate level upwards.

Selected Contents: Introduction 1. Spies, Lies and Sexual Outlaws: Male Spies in Popular Fiction 2. Femmes Fatale and British Grit: Women Spies in World War One and World War Two 3. Dolly Birds: Female Spies in the Sixties 4. *Transformations continued...WINNER OF THE BSA PHILIP ABRAMS MEMORIAL PRIZE 2007*White Lives

The Interplay of 'Race', Class and Gender in Everyday Life

Bridget Byrne, University of Manchester, UK

This revealing book explores the processes of racialization, class and gender, and examines how these processes play out in the everyday lives of white women living in London with young children. Bridget Byrne analyzes the flexibility of racialized discourse in everyday life, while simultaneously arguing for a radical deconstruction of the notions of race these discourses create.

She focuses on the experience of white mothers and their children, as a key site in the reproduction of class, race and gender subjectivities, offering a compelling account of both the experience of motherhood and ideas of white identity.

Byrne's research is unique in its approach of exploring whiteness in the context of practices of mothering. She adopts a broad perspective, and her approach provides a suggestive framework for analyzing the racialization of everyday life. The book's multi-layered analysis shifts expertly from intimate acts to those which engage with local and national discourses in more public spaces.

Reconsidering white identities through white experiences of race, White Lives encompasses many disciplines, making valuable reading for those studying sociology, anthropology, race and ethnicity, and cultural studies.

The World We Have Won

The Remaking of Erotic and Intimate Life

Jeffrey Weeks, South Bank University, London, UK

The World We Have Won is a major study of transformations in erotic and intimate life since 1945. We are living in a world of transition, in the midst of a long, unfinished but profound revolution that has transformed the possibilities of living out our sexual diversities.

This book provides a balance sheet of the changes that have transformed our ways of being, from welfarism to the pill, women's and gay liberation, from globalization, consumerism and individualization to new forms of intimacy, from friends as family to same sex marriage. Some respond to these challenges with a deep cultural pessimism or moral conservatism. It rejects such views and argues that this is a world we are increasingly making for ourselves, part of the long process of democratization of everyday life. Unless we grasp this we cannot understand, not only the problems and anxieties, but the opportunities and hopes in this world we have won.

Selected Contents: 1. A Different World 2. Cultures of Restraint 3. The Great Transition 1: Democratization and Autonomy 4. The Great Transition 2: Regulation, Risk and Resistance 5. Chaotic Pleasures: Diversity and the New Individualism 6. The Contradictions of Contemporary Sexuality 7. Moments of Intimacy: Norms, Values and Everyday Commitments 8. ## The Sciences of Homosexuality in Early Modern Europe

Edited by Kenneth Borris and George S. Rousseau

This collection establishes that efforts to produce scientific explanations for same-sex desires and sexual behaviors are not a modern invention, but have long been characteristic of European thought.

This original book illuminates many of the questions that are current today about the nature of homosexual activity and reveals how the early modern period and its scientific interpretations of same-sex relationships are fundamental to understanding the conceptual development of contemporary sexuality.

The Caveman Mystique

Pop-Darwinism and the Debates Over Sex, Violence, and Science

Martha McCaughey, Appalachian State University, USA

Has evolution made men promiscuous skirt chasers? Pop-Darwinian claims about men's irrepressible heterosexuality have become increasingly common, and increasingly common excuses for men's sexual aggression. The Caveman Mystique traces such claims about the hairier sex through evolutionary science and popular culture. After outlining the social and historical context of the rise of pop-Darwinism's assertions about male sexuality and their appeal to many men, Martha McCaughey shows how evolutionary discourse can get lived out as the biological truth of male sexuality.

Although evolutionary scientists want to use their theories to solve social problems, evolutionary narratives get invoked by men looking for a Darwinian defense of bad-boy behaviors. McCaughey argues that evolution has nearly replaced religion as a moral guide for understanding who we are and what we must overcome to be good people.

Bringing together insights from the fields of science studies, body studies, feminist theory and queer theory, The Caveman Mystique offers a fresh understanding of science, science popularization, and the impact of science on men's identities making a convincing case for deconstructing, rather than defending, the caveman.

Selected Contents: Introduction: Welcome Back to the Caveman Times 1. Sperm Wars, Sex Wars and Science Wars 2. Homo Resurrectus: The Theory of Evolution as a Moral Answer for Men 3. Homo Habitus: Evolution, Popular Culture and the Embodied Ethos of Male Sexuality 4. Sexual Orientation Discrimination

An International Perspective

Edited by Lee Badgett, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, USA and Jeff Frank, Royal Holloway, University of London, UK

Series: Routledge IAFFE Advances in Feminist Economics

Having recently authored one of the most significant books, Money, Myths and Change, in this exciting area of economics, Lee Badgett has now teamed up with Jeff Frank and a collection of international contributors to provide an analysis of sexual orientation discrimination on an international scale.

Discrimination based on sexual orientation continues to fuel collective action, policy debates and academic scrutiny in many countries. For some time, sociologists and psychologists have studied sexual orientation discrimination in institutions and explored prejudices against lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender people in mainstream areas. Now economists have also begun to examine the experiences of lesbians, gay men and bisexuals in less traditional research sectors including the labour, housing, credit, and retail markets. This book includes sections on:

- wages and jobs
- discrimination across institutional contexts
- discrimination in cultural institutions including religion, education and sport
- addressing discrimination through public policies.

Innovative and up-to-date this book is an essential read for postgraduate students studying in the areas of political economy, gender studies and feminist economics.

NEW FOR 2008*Judith Butler

Sexual Politics, Social Change and the Power of the Performative

Gill Jagger, University of Hull, UK

Judith Butler's work on gender, sexuality, identity, and the body has proved massively influential across a range of academic disciplines in the humanities and social sciences. Yet it is also notoriously difficult to access.

This key book provides a comprehensive introduction to Butler's work, plus a critical examination of it and its precursors, both feminist (including Simone de Beauvoir, Monique Wittig, Julia Kristeva and Luce Irigaray), and non-feminist (including Erving Goffman, Michel Foucault, Jacques Lacan, and Jacques Derrida). The volume covers topics such as:

- gender as performance and performativity
- sociological notions of performance
- the materiality of the body and the role of biology
- power, identity and social regulation
- subjectivity, agency and feminist political practice.

A comprehensive introduction to Butler's work, this book also covers melancholia and gender identity, hate speech, pornography and 'race', social change and transformation, and Butler's shifting relation to psychoanalysis.

Clearly laid out to cover key themes for a student audience, this key text will be an essential read for undergraduates in the fields of gender, psychoanalysis and sociology.

Selected Contents: Introduction 1. Gender as Performance and Performative 2. Body Matters: From Construction to Materialization 3. Performativity, Subjection and the Possibility of Agency 4. The Politics of the Performative: Hate Speech, Pornography and 'Race' 5. Beyond Identity Politics: Gender, Transgender and Sexual Difference. Conclusion

NEW*Judith Butler in Conversation

Analyzing the Texts and Talk of Everyday Life

Bronwyn Davies, University of Western Sydney, Australia

How has Judith Butler's writing contributed to thought in the Social Sciences and the Humanities? The participants in this project draw on various aspects of Butler's conceptual work and they question how it has opened up the possibilities of thought in areas of study as diverse as theatre studies, education and narrative therapy.

In a format that demands careful listening and response, the scholars in this book interact with Butler and with her writing, and they interact with each other. Within this dynamic interactive space they take up Butler's body of work and they carry it in new and exciting directions. Their conversations and writing are, in turn, funny, exciting, surprising and moving.

Edited by Irene van Staveren, Institute of Social Studies, the Netherlands, Diane Elson, University of Essex, Colchester, UK, Caren Grown, Levy Economics Institute, Annandale-on-Hudson, USA and Nilufer Cagatay, University of Utah, Salt Lake City, USA

Unravelling the complex relationship between gender inequality and trade, this is the first book to combine the tools of economic and gender analysis to examine the relationship between international trade and gender relations.

The book brings together fourteen contributions from a variety of economic perspectives, including structuralist, institutionalist, neoclassical and Post-Keynesian by a range of authors including Lourdes Benería, William Darity, Marzia Fontana and Mariama Williams to demonstrate what feminist economics contribution to the analysis of international trade, through theoretical modelling, econometric analysis and policy-oriented contributions. It includes evidence from industrialized, semi-industrialized, and agrarian economies, using country case studies and cross-country analysis.

Arguing that trade expansion and reduction of gender inequality can be combined, but only if an appropriate mix and sequence of trade and other economic policies is implemented, this book is key reading for all students of international economics, gender and cultural studies and politics and international relations, among other disciplines.

Women and the Distribution of Wealth

Feminist Economics

Edited by Carmen Diane Deere, University of Florida, USA and Cheryl R. Doss, Yale Centre for International and Area Studies, USA

This collection focuses on documenting the gender distribution of wealth and addressing how and why it matters within a variety of geographical contexts. Including historical, comparative, analytical, and policy-oriented work, the essays conceptualize how we think about and measure asset ownership; analyze wealth as a measure of bargaining power within households; examine different marital regimes and their implications for the dynamic of wealth accumulation; take into account differences of race, ethnicity, and social class; consider the role of the state in reducing inequalities in wealth and assets by gender and class.

This book was previously published as a special issue of Feminist Economics.

Selected Contents: 1. The Gender Asset Gap: What Do We Know and Why Does it Matter? 2. Qui Bono?: The 1870 British Married Women's Property Act, Bargaining Power, and the Distribution of Resources Within Marriage 3. Crippled Capitalists: The Inscription of Economic Dependence and the Challenge of Female Entrepreneurship in Nineteenth-Century America 4. 'The Widow, the Clergyman, and the Reckless': Women Investors in England, 1830-1914 5. Gender, Marriage, and Asset Accumulation in the United States 6. The Wealth of Single Females: Marital Status and Parenthood in the Asset Accumulation of Young Baby Boomers in the United States 7. Moving beyond the Gender Wealth Gap: On Gender, Class, Ethnicity, and Wealth Inequalities in the UK 8. Anna Julia Cooper, Visionary Black Feminist

A Critical Introduction

Vivian M. May

In this book Vivian M. May explores the theoretical and political contributions of Anna Julia Cooper, a renowned Black feminist scholar, educator and activist whose ideas deserve far more attention than they have received. Drawing on Africana and feminist theory, May places Cooper's theorizing in its historical contexts and offers new ways to interpret the evolution of Cooper's visionary politics, subversive methodology, and defiant philosophical outlook. Rejecting notions that Cooper was an elitist duped by dominant ideologies, May contends that Cooper's ambiguity, code-switching, and irony should be understood as strategies of a radical methodology of dissent.

She shows how across six decades of work, Cooper traced history's silences and delineated the workings of power and inequality in an array of contexts, from science to literature, economics to popular culture, religion to the law, education to social work, and from the political to the personal. May emphasizes that Cooper eschewed all forms of mastery and called for critical consciousness and collective action on the part of marginalized people at home and abroad. She concludes that in using a border-crossing, intersectional approach, Cooper successfully argues for theorizing from experience, develops inclusive methods of liberation, and crafts a vision of a fundamentally egalitarian social imaginary.

Selected Contents: Introduction: 'A Woman of Rare Courage and Conviction' 1. 'A Little More than Ordinary Interest in the Underprivileged': Cooper's Lifelong Commitment to Liberation 2. 'Life Must be Something more than Dilettante Speculation': Cooper's Multidimensional Praxis 3. 'If you Object to Imaginary Lines – Don't Draw them!': Cooper's Border-Crossing Methods 4. ## Beyond Bad Girls

Gender, Violence and Hype

Meda Chesney-Lind, University of Hawaii, Honolulu and Katherine Irwin, University of Hawaii, Honolulu

In this important new work, two respected criminologists challenge the characterization of the new 'bad girl' arguing that it is only a new attempt to punish girls who are not the stereotypical depiction of good. Through interviews with young women, educators and people in the criminal justice system, Beyond Bad Girls exposes the formal and informal systems of socio-cultural control imposed on girls.

Selected Contents: 1. Girls Gone Wild? 2. The New Bad Girl: Constructing Mean and Violent Girls 3. Speaking of Girls 4. Growing Up Female: Families and the Regulation of Girlhood 5. Policing Girls' Peer Groups: Columbine and the Hunt for Girl Bullies 6. Pathologizing Girls?: Relational Aggression and Violence Prevention 7. Policing Girlhood: Sexism, Schools, and the Anti-Violence Movement 8. Still 'the Best Place to Conquer Girls': Girls and the Juvenile Justice System 9. Policing Gone Wild

Global Gender Research

Transnational Perspectives

Christine Bose and Min Jeong Kim

This volume provides an in-depth comparative picture of the current state of feminist sociological gender research and/or women's studies research for five regions of the world, represented by ten or eleven countries. A synthetic overview essay for each representative country is organized around key issues. It familiarizes readers with the wide range of salient issues, research methods, writing styles, and leading authors from around the globe. Readers can compare and contrast the threads of similarity and strands of difference in feminist concerns globally, gaining familiarity with the breadth of gender research, and understanding the national contexts that produced it. Each essay is addition, the editors illustrate this new wave of gender research with a translated/reprinted sample of important contemporary theoretical or empirical work from each country. Pieces are included from scholars in: India, China (Asia), sub Saharan Africa, Western and Eastern Europe, South/Central America, and both the English, and Hispanic speaking Caribbean.

5-VOL SET

MAJOR WORK

Men & Masculinities

Critical Concepts in Sociology

Edited by Stephen Whitehead, Keele University, UK*Series: Critical Concepts in Sociology*

Men & Masculinities is a new title in the Routledge Major Works series, Critical Concepts in Sociology. In five volumes, this set brings together canonical and cutting-edge material in the field to make sense of a rapidly expanding area of research.

The sociology of masculinity began to assume real significance from the late 1980s onwards, when it emerged out of the second wave of feminist research sweeping through American, European and Australasian universities at that time. In theoretical terms, scholars in the field primarily adopt sociological and psychoanalytical perspectives, while also connecting to psychological and philosophical understandings. Over the past decade there has been a surge in the number of publications that focus on aspects of global masculinities; there is now published research into Chinese, Russian, Japanese, Mexican, Indian, Caribbean, French, Spanish and African masculinities. Within the US there is also a burgeoning literature on Black and Latino masculinities in numerous contexts.

The sheer scale of this growth in research output – and the breadth of the field – makes this Routledge collection especially timely, and while it covers the primary concepts and discussions which have come to inform this field of study over the past thirty years or so, the collection also brings together material reflecting new debates and new areas of research from across the world.

With examples from every key writer and researcher who has contributed to the field over the past three decades, together with a comprehensive introduction, newly written by the editor, which places the collected material in context, Men & Masculinities is an essential reference collection destined to be valued by scholars and students as a vital research resource.

Selected Contents: Volume 1: 1. Politics of Men and Masculinities 2. Men and Power 3. Masculinity in 'Crisis' 4. Men's Research, Researching Men Volume 2: 1. Work, Organizations and Managements 2. Families and Fathers 3. Education and Schooling 4. Sport and Leisure 5. Crime, War and Violence Volume 3: 1. Theoretical Approaches 2. Male Bodies 3. Gay Masculinities 4. Intimacy, Friendship and Relationships 5. Language 6. Health and Ageing 7. Media Representations Volume 4: 1. Black British and Black American Masculinities 2. Latino and Chicano Masculinities 3. White Masculinities Volume 5: 1. The Far East 2. The Middle East 3. Africa 4. South America and the Caribbean 5. Europe
